The Company will educate you and help you understand the optimal health principles of healthy living. You also understand that as with any change in diet or exercise, you should consult you doctor, and if you are on any medications you should regularly check back with your doctor so your dosages can be adjusted as needed. For example, if your blood pressure comes down naturally as a result of lifestyle changes, your medications may take your blood pressure too low. For diabetics, if your body naturally begins to bring down your blood sugar levels due to healthier living, it is CRITICAL that you work with your doctor to adjust your medications.
